Award creator Cliff Mishler (below) hosted the breakfast ceremony. The presentation of this award has become part of the FUN Coin Show for the last few years. Tom was one of five worthy recipients this year.

We at PAN have always known Tom to be a workhorse for the hobby and are keenly aware of his many accomplishments that include exhibiting at local, regional, and national coin shows. He received the ANA Presidential Award in 2011. He is a member of CCAC, ANA, FUN, CSNS, WPNS, South Hills Coin Club, and serves as president of the George Washington Numismatic Association.

A 501 (c)(4) non-profit organization dedicated to promoting the hobby of coin collecting through education.

A Super Bowl Shout Out

Well, at the risk of alienating a few of our subscribers and as an official Pennsylvania organization, we would be remiss not to mention a certain sporting event that occurred this past January.

How Do The PAN Shows Compare?

One of the statistics that we like to do is to attempt to track the number of dealers and attendees at coin shows and create a ratio. These are difficult numbers to acquire since not all shows publish both numbers. We have been able to assemble some numbers for the last three years of a few coin shows.

The attendance numbers presented do not include dealers or table help. Some shows combine both so we subtracted the number of dealers listed in their directories. Our goal was to see how the PAN shows stacked up as compared to others. We decided to published this list only now and have stats going back to 2013. If you run a coin show and have accurate numbers then we would be grateful to include them.

We view this as a tool to determine the trends and the health of the coin show business. Major national shows tend to attract attendees that are serious buyers and sellers. Smaller shows may have a mix of serious buyers to curiosity seekers. There are many other factors that determine the success of a coin show. This is only presented as food for thought. We would be interested to hear your own thoughts?

Email us at: PANcoins@gmail.com

The chart at left offers some considerations that dealers weigh out when selecting which shows to attend. An established customer base is likely their primary consideration. This takes time to develop. A tip about the PAN shows and the demographic of the area - if your material is reasonably priced and you are friendly then you should do well at a PAN show. Pittsburgh folks like to walk around and kick the tires a little bit before they buy. They often come back.

The Gold Medal of Theodoric the Great,
King of the Ostrogoths (AD 493-526) by E. Tomlinson Fort

The fifth century saw the collapse of the western Roman Empire and the rise of a number of so called successor states under various Germanic speaking tribes including the Vandals (North Africa), the Franks (Gaul), the Suevi (the area of much of modern Portugal), the Visigoths (the rest of the Iberian peninsula and south western Gaul) and the Anglo-Saxons (Britain south of the Firths). One of the most interesting of these new Germanic kingdoms was that of the Ostrogoths which occupied all of the Italian peninsula and parts of the western Balkans as well.

The first and greatest of the Ostrogothic kings was Theodoric. He ruled first the Amal Goths and later a coalition of other Gothic tribes and various other groups which came to be called the Ostrogoths (for Eastern Goths). He also would seize power in Italy and by 511 control, or have dominant influence over, two thirds of the old Western Roman Empire.

Born in 454 in what is now western Austria, Theodoric was the son the Amal king Theodemir and a 'concubine' Ereleuva. In view of the fact that many early Germanic rulers practiced various types of polygamy she may have been considered a wife among the Amals. In compliance with a treaty between them and the Eastern emperor Leo I (457-474), Theodoric was sent to Constantinople as a hostage at the age of ten in 464. For the next ten years he lived in and around the eastern capital. There he would have received a traditional Roman education including the ability to speak, read and write in Greek and Latin. In 581 King Theodemir died and Theodoric eventually succeeded to the throne through a mixture of political abilities, military skill and total ruthlessness that eliminated all rivals. He also gained some imperial favour since he was made a Master of the Soldiers (magister militum) in 483 and he achieved the consulship in 484. However, these eastern honours seem to have done little to create any loyalty towards the eastern empire. Using the same methods that had lead him to the throne, over the next few years Theodoric built a coalition with other tribes and created a significant military force north of the Balkans that became known as the Ostrogoths. He then used this force as a means to extract payment from Constantinople to prevent him raiding into their territories.

At the time, the Ostrogoths were settled in Byzantine territory as foederati ('allies') of the Romans, but were becoming restless and increasingly difficult for Emperor Zeno to manage. Not long after Theodoric became king, the two men worked out an arrangement beneficial to both sides. The Ostrogoths needed a place to live, and Zeno needed help dealing with the troublesome Odovacar, the king of Italy, who had come to power in 476. Ostensibly a viceroy for Zeno, Odovacar was menacing Byzantine territory and not respecting the rights of Roman citizens in the Italian peninsula. Seeing an opportunity in pitting two Germanic speaking rulers against one another, Zeno encouraged Theodoric to look for better opportunities towards the west. This also benefitted Theodoric since occupying the north Balkans and the Hungarian plain made the Ostrogoths an obvious target for both Zeno and Odovacar should their military interests shift. Therefore, the Ostrogoths invaded Odovacar's kingdom in 488.

Once Theodoric entered the Italian peninsula, he won a series of battles between 488 and 492-493 and took the former western imperial capital of Ravenna. On 2 February of 493, Theodoric and Odovacar signed a treaty that assured both parties would rule as equals over Italy. Later a banquet was organised in order to celebrate the agreement. It was at this celebration that Theodoric personally killed Odovacar by nearly cutting him in two with a sword. Thus, he secured all of Italy, the parts northern Balkans and regions on the Hungarian plain for himself.

- DONATION $100.00

WINNER IS #107
Joe Bissell, PirateGoldCoins.com
LaJolla, CA

PAN New Year Eve Raffle Winner – Yes, we had a winner! The $10,000 top prize went to Joe Bissell owner of PirateGoldCoins.com. The winning number was based on the December 31st 2017 PA Daily Lottery three digit number drawing that happened to be 307 that happened to be printed on Joe Bissell's winning ticket. Joe lives in LaJolla CA and was out having dinner with family that lucky evening. Our Clarion editor, Rich Jewell called his cell phone voicemail. Rich left him a message that he really should take his call and to call back. Joe thought Rich was teasing him as he explained how he never wins anything. That was a fun check to write that was sent the following week. What a way to start the new year!

There were two consolation prizes of $500 each. Checks were sent to the George Washington Numismatic Association that had number 108 and to collector Liz E. that had number 106. We appreciated all the coin clubs that voted to buy one of our tickets and to all the collectors, dealers, and friends that supported us. We had fun doing it and were able to raise some money for PAN that all goes back into promoting and encouraging folks to take up this great hobby.

This was our first try at a large prize raffle. We came a bit short of a sellout but it was a great start to get it rolling. We will have tickets again on sale for another New Year Eve drawing. Our goal is to make it a PAN tradition. We hope to have the 2018 tickets printed and ready by the summer ANA WFM in Philadelphia.

PAN has a very strong presence on Facebook. Social media is often criticized for negative narratives to drive an agenda or as a time waste with little value. We have successfully used it as a tool to promote numismatics across the state of Pennsylvania and nationally.

One of our newer programs is to announce PA coin club meeting location, date, time and topic as a means to increase club membership.

We do this at no charge to local coin clubs. We often boost the post, meaning spending a few dollars to help the notice get to more viewers.

At left is a recent posting that we did for the Red Rose Coin Club. As a statewide organization, we are constantly working to promote local club membership and participation.

If you would like us to announce your meeting then just send us an email with meeting information and we would be glad to help to promote your coin club.

pancoins@gmail.com

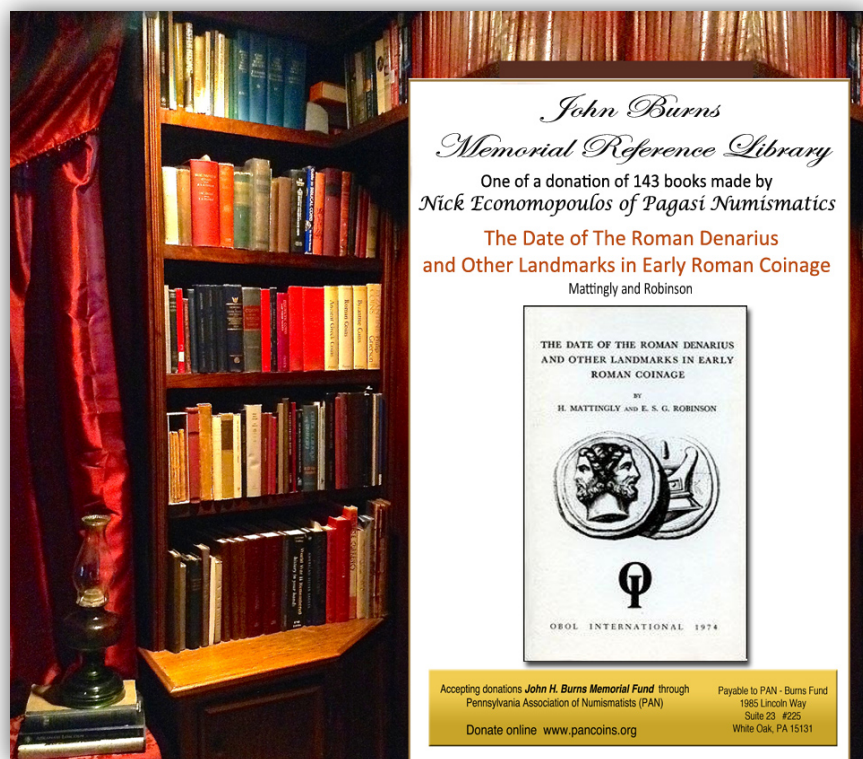

PAN now has nearly 3,000 FB followers!

Hello 2018 – It is that time of year to renew your membership in PAN. Most organizations send dues notices out in December. We have found the response to be better after the holiday season is well over and the spending for gifts and holiday parties has finally subsided.

The PANeNEWS remains free and members and non-members will continue to receive it as usual. Now for the pitch! If you are not a member there are a few things to consider. Members are sent our journal, The Clarion, three times per year. It is full size, fifty pages, and full color that include numismatic articles by authors and researchers from across the country.

PAN membership allows you a one half hour early access to our coin shows. This is a great way to beat the rush and to have a first look at your favorite dealer's fresh inventory. Why not Join today by going to the PAN website and click the membership tab?

PAN had a very unexpected and pleasant surprise when coin dealer Nick Economopoulos backed his vehicle to the loading dock to unload and set up at the past October PAN coin show. He asked if we could give him a hand unloading bags of 143 various books that he brought to donate to our John Burns Reference Library that we have set up at all the PAN shows.

Nick is the director of the East Coast Pennsylvania Office of Pagasi Numismatics. He holds advanced degrees in Classics and Classical Archaeology and has been a numismatist for 37 years. Nicholas heads the wholesale division of Pagasi and attends every major coin show in the United States. He specializes in all facets of Ancient coinage and is an authority on the coinage of the Byzantine Empire.

He told us that he was doing a little house cleaning and decided to go the donation route instead of selling the books. We have now entered all of them into our library inventory. The list can be viewed on our PAN website, Burns Library page. If you are unfamiliar about the use and purpose of this library then please go to the page and read more. These donated books will be part of the set up for the PAN Spring Coin show. We now have added another set of bookshelves to house our growing collection. We currently have 363 books in the library inventory. Find out more: <https://pancoins.org/john-burns-memorial-reference-library/>

PAN participated in the Industry Council for Tangible Assets (ICTA) dinner cruise aboard the Yacht StarShip II in Tampa, Florida on January 3rd in conjunction with the Florida United Numismatists coin show. Dealer member Mitch Hyatt (Hyatt Coin and Gun Shop, Charlotte, North Carolina) was honored as the recipient of the 2017 Diane Piret Memorial Outstanding Service Award. North Carolina recently was able to have the state sales tax removed from coins and bullion. This would not have happened without the collaborative effort of Mitch and ICTA.

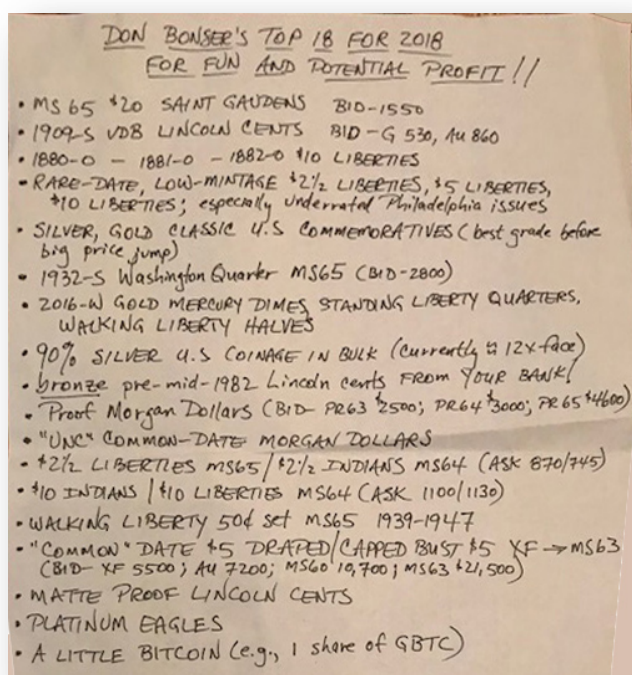

PAN is a member organization of ICTA.

Renewing our membership is a top priority for us at the beginning of each year. Pennsylvania has been a tax-free state for a number of years but we have had at least two close calls on having the sales tax legislation repealed. ICTA's red alerts triggered action phone calls to state legislators and senators by our PAN members and dealers to put the pressure on and kept the current law intact. PAN cannot emphasize how important it is to support ICTA with a membership. There are different levels to fit everyone's budget. <http://www.ictaonline.org/>

ICTA Board Chairman Phillip Diehl and Executive director Kathy McFadden

The January FUN Show offers everything that a numismatist could ask for at a coin show. The weeklong extravaganza features anyone and everyone associated with numismatics.

The FUN Convention Seminars are wide-ranging and well attended. One of the traditional favorites as evident by the packed crowd in the room is "My 18 Favorite Coins For Fun & Profit In 2018," by Don Bonser.

As described in the FUN Program, Mr. Bonser is a well-respected professional dealer (and a former full time grader) from central Florida. Each year, he entertains his audiences with a combination of humor and folksy logic. As usual, some of his specific picks will be unorthodox in nature. But they could also be big winners in 2018!

Since many have likely never attended the FUN Convention we have saved a copy of Don's pass out sheet. He is not big on sophisticated presentations but his engaging style draws in the crowds. Now as far as accuracy, who knows? It is a lot of fun to speculate!

PAN volunteer Matt Campbell presented his exhibit on the Carnegie Hero Medal as part of the Washington Symphony Orchestra's February 18 concert, "Music to the Rescue," in Washington, PA.

The orchestra presented a program of music on the theme of heroes. Before the concert, the orchestra honored local heroes in the Washington County recipients, some of whom were in attendance, of the Carnegie Hero Medal. The Carnegie Hero Fund was established in 1904 by Andrew Carnegie to recognize civilian acts of heroism. The fund has awarded over 10,000 medals throughout the United States and Canada since 1904.

Campbell presented his exhibit in the lobby before, during, and after the concerts to interested patrons and spoke about the medals and how they are awarded. PAN President Tom Uram was in attendance as well to help answer questions and promote PAN as well as Washington's local coin club. Campbell's exhibit includes a silver medal awarded to 1908 to the mother of Ivah Coles, who drowned attempting to save a friend; a bronze medal awarded in 1931 in its original packaging; and a 100th anniversary commemorative silver medal issued by the Carnegie Hero Fund in 2004.

The exhibit has been displayed at the PAN show multiple times and at the Central States convention in April 2017; the ANA show in Denver in summer 2017; and the FUN show in January of this year.

We'll end this issue with some fun photos from the FUN Show. It is always great to see one of our PAN t-shirts, dealer signs, lanyards, or custom dealer badges at other coin shows especially a large national show. We were pleasantly surprised to see Richard Gross at his table giving us a shout. Richard usually has on something colorful like a tie-dye shirt or equivalent. We were delighted to see that our PAN attire made it to part of his show wardrobe.

Mike Fuljenz of Universal Coin and Bullion has got the right idea after an intense day on the bourse floor. He kicks it back for an enjoyable moment at the ICTA cruise dinner. Mike is well known in the numismatic trade. He is also on the ICTA Board of Directors.

Pittsburgh dealers Harold Weitz and

Kim Titley stopped for a moment in the hotel lobby while on their way to the show floor. The great Florida weather and palm trees usually keep everyone smiling. It is the perfect place to be in the middle of winter especially after the horrid month of snow and sub freezing cold that pummeled us in Pennsylvania. Just ask those that are from Erie, PA.

Visitors often stop by our PAN table during the major shows. O.T Thompson from the Cape Fear Coin Club, Wilmington

NC window dressed us with a visit. Their club is very active and puts out a great newsletter, Coinfusion that O.T. edits. If you are a Pittsburgh snowbird they are worth a lookup during your winter hibernation

www.LCFCC.org

Additional note to the right corner, PAN was not responsible for hanging. Counterfeiting is serious business in the south. Thanks goes out to our photographer Tom Uram. Ted Shiff of Cybercoins.net and Bob Foley of the North Hills Coin Club, from Pittsburgh also paid us a visit. Ted got stuck driving in the Carolina snowstorm and moved about a foot an hour. As a northerner you would think that you would not be snow encumbered by the time you got to the Carolinas. The weather has been bizarre!
